Step 1 — Public Post / Reply (Twitter/X):

Use this short public post to tag him and open the conversation (under 280 characters):

> .@GlennYoungkin — I've developed a national framework for experiential civic education that puts state & community control first. No federal mandate. Proven model. Built on the Founders' vision of an active citizenry. I'd love 10 minutes of your time. Full white paper available. #LongExperiment

Step 2 — Direct Message (if he follows back or DMs are open):

Send this as a follow-up DM after the public post:

> Governor Youngkin — I am a civic advocate from Ringgold, Georgia writing to share a framework I believe aligns directly with everything you championed as governor: the National Experiential Civic Education Framework.

> NECEF embeds hands-on civic programs in schools — community service, emergency preparedness, infrastructure stewardship, leadership development — with full state and local control over program content. No federal curriculum. No mandate. Federal dollars flow through existing AmeriCorps and Title IV mechanisms. States define their own needs.

You ran for governor on the principle that schools serve communities, not the other way around. This framework is built on exactly that conviction. With your profile and a possible 2028 platform, you could be the conservative champion who brings this across the finish line nationally.

I have a full white paper with cost estimates ($57-$87/student/year), proven program models, and a measurement framework ready to share. Would you or a member of your team be willing to take a look?
